MY CREDIT GROUP SERVES AS DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE RESOURCE

Marines With Credit Woes Are Referred to San Marcos Credit Repair Company

SAN MARCOS, CALIF., November 10, 2006—My Credit Group Inc., credit repair specialists, announced today that the Department of Defense has retained its services to assist Marines at Camp Pendleton who are facing overwhelming credit issues. Dealing with significant debt situations does more than hinder Marines' ability to purchase homes and other big-ticket items; it may preclude them from being deployed.

Gerald Williams, Department of Defense financial management consultant at Camp Pendleton, said many Marines run into credit trouble as a result of frequent use of payday loan facilities as well as maxing out multiple credit cards. His role is to provide education and guidance about the appropriate use of credit, something that's new to many Marines.

"It's really critical to get credit issues ironed out before Marines get deployed," Williams said. "If they're worried about financial issues, they're going to be less effective in performing their jobs, potentially compromising themselves or their units, which can lead to a loss of life."

Williams researched a number of outside credit repair resources prior to selecting My Credit Group as the one to which he refers Marines. He's gotten excellent feedback from those who've been assisted by the company; they appreciate the professionalism of the My Credit Group team and are comforted by knowing they're not being taken advantage of.

"There are a lot of fly-by-night credit repair companies out there," said Marc Chase, Partner and vice president of Commercial Accounts for My Credit Group. "We're one of only a handful that are bonded, insured, and registered with the Secretary of State and the State District Attorney. We provide professional, personalized service, treating our clients like family."

My Credit Group has been doing business since 2001, compiling a flawless record of success with clients who seek to get their credit cleaned up. Chase and his team are proud of that accomplishment; they're passionate about helping clients change their lives for the better.
